WASHINGTON NEWS.

The Nominations of Conkling and Sargent Confirmed.

THE FORMER BY A VOTE OF THIRTY-FIVE TO TWELVE.

Speeches on the Chinese Bill in the Senate—New Star Route Indictments Found.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—The second batch of indictments in the straw bond case, was presented to-day: Kate M. Armstrong, J. W. Donohoe, W. W. Jackson, Andrew E. Boone and Sam'l G. Cabell, for perjury, 2d of December, 1880, in signing certain blanks—26 bills for carrying mails—in the name of the late J. Armstrong; John W. Dorsey, perjury on oath; C. F. Perkins, Geo. B. Dalton, John F. Foote and Geo. B. Hazen, in swearing April 26, 1879, to an affidavit to induce the postmaster general to expedite such routes; John W. Dorsey, making similar affidavits on April 26, 1879, to expedite route 38,140 from Trinidad to Mallison; John R. Miner, perjury on oath, and M. Caino, C. McLellan and others, in making affidavit as to route 38,736 from St. Charles to Greenhorn, Cal., April 17, 1879. The grand jury will be discharged for the term Saturday and the remaining indictments be prepared and presented by that day. That of Gen. Brady is held to the last.

The indictment against Donohue, Jackson, Boone and Cabell sets forth that these persons did corruptly combine and confederate to fraudulently bid for certain post routes in southern states in the name of Kate M. Armstrong. The indictments against Dorsey and Miner, which are for perjury, are based upon specifications setting forth that Dorsey and Miner in order to deceive the postmaster general and others and obtain extra allowance for expedition on routes named, made and swore to false statements with regard to the number of animals then engaged in transporting mails on such respective routes and the number which would be required to carry them under the expedited schedule.

Senator Hoar's Mistaken Ideas.

Senator Hoar's speech on the Chinese bill to-day was substantially a repetition of the effort by which he endeavored to prevent ratification of the Chinese treaty, its chief staple being the fatherhood of God and brotherhood of man idea, and its fundamental argument the dogma that every human being has a right to go anywhere he wants to without interference from any government; in short, that our country was founded to be, and should be, an asylum for men of all races. There is no reason to believe that his arguments have made any impression that can not readily be removed before the senate comes to a vote on the bill, and Pacific coast senators are still entirely confident that it will be passed this week by considerably more than the requisite majority.

New Nominations.

The president has nominated Cornelius A. Logan, of Illinois, envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to Chili, and John B. Weaver, of North Carolina, U. S. consul to Bahia.

Conkling and Sargent Confirmed.

The senate in executive session to-day confirmed the nominations of ex-Senators Conkling and Sargent to be associate justice of the supreme court and minister to Germany. Sargent's nomination was confirmed unanimously.

The vote on Conkling's confirmation is understood to have been 39 yeas and 12 nays (eight democrats and four republicans, namely Hoar, Dawes, Morrill and Hawley). Sargent's nomination was confirmed without division.

Conkling will Probably Accept.

Ex-Senator Conkling arrived here last night. His acceptance or rejection of the place upon the supreme bench was the object of a protracted conference at the White House, in which Conkling was represented by a friend who is very conversant with his views. It is learned from an authoritative source that Conkling before leaving New York was disposed to decline the appointment but he has now about determined to accept it.

Senator Ingalls' Friendship.

Senator Ingalls denies emphatically the statement that he is opposed to Conkling's confirmation, and says he is personally and politically a friend of Conkling.

Comptroller's Statement.

The following is the statement of the comptroller of currency: National bank notes outstanding June 20, 1874, $349,894,182; outstanding Jan. 14, 1875, $351,861,450; outstanding May 21, 1878, $322,555,961; outstanding at present (circulation of national gold banks not included) $361,014,786. Decrease during last month, $649,011; increase since March 1, 1881, $18,108,033. Legal tender notes, amount outstanding June 20, 1874, $382,000,000; outstanding Jan. 14, 1875, $382,000,000; retired under act of Jan. 14, 1875, to May 31, 1880, $35,318,984. In February there was a decrease in internal revenue receipts compared with 1881, amounting to $774,551, the first decrease in receipts since agitation of reduction in tobacco tax two years ago. Unless speedy action on the subject of taxation is taken by congress there is reason to fear a greater decrease may occur in the near future.

Hearing Before Railroad Committee.

The senate committee on railroads to-day resumed hearing of statements relative to the pending bill, which proposes to ratify the act of the Choctaw legislature granting right of way through Indian territory to the St. Louis and San Francisco railroad. D. K. Tripp, general solicitor of the Chicago Texas and Mexican Central railroad company, stated the St. Louis and San Francisco company agree with his Chicago company that if it would withdraw its bill from the Choctaw legislature and allow the former company to procure a charter, the St. Louis and San Francisco would.

Opposition to Vest's Bill.

Some democratic congressmen are very much opposed to giving anything like a party support to Vest's bill. There will be an effort probably to smother it in committee. One democrat says it may be a very good measure for Missouri, where greenbackism prevails, but that it is a dangerous one for the party to indorse and that he is determined to oppose it.

CONCLUSION OF BLAINE'S ADDRESS.

Following is the conclusion of Blaine's memorial address, delayed by failure to transmit to this coast in time to publish with the former. The entire address is published in full in the WEEKLY OREGONIAN to-day.

Not alone for the one short moment in which, stunned and dazed, he could give up life, hardly aware of its relinquishment; but through days of deadly languor, through weeks of agony that was not the less agony because silently borne, with clear sight and calm courage he looked into his open grave. What blight and ruin met his anguished eyes. Whose lips may tell what brilliant, broken plans, what baffled high ambition, what sundering strokes of warm manhood's friendships, what bitter rending of sweet household ties. Behind him a proud expectant nation, a great host of sustaining friends, a cherished and happy mother wearing the full, rich honors of her early toil and tears; the wife of his youth, whose whole life lay in his; the little boys not yet emerged from childhood's day of frolic; the fair young daughter, the sturdy sons, just springing into closest companionship, claiming every day, and every day rewarding a father's love and care, and in his heart the eager rejoicing power to meet all demands; before him desolation and great darkness, and his soul was not shaken. His countrymen were thrilled with an instant, profound and universal sympathy. He became the center of a nation's love and enshrined in the prayers of a world; but all the love and all the sympathy could not share with him in his suffering. He trod the wine press alone. With unfaltering front he faced death; with unfailing tenderness he took leave of life. Above the demoniac hiss of the assassin's bullet he heard the voice of God. With simple resignation he bowed to the divine decree. As the end drew near, his early craving, the longing for the sea returned. The stately mansion of power had been to him the weary hospital of pain, and he begged to be taken from its prison walls, from its oppressive stifling air, from its homelessness, from its hopelessness. Gently and silently the love of a great people bore the pale sufferer to the longed-for healing of the sea, to live or to die, as God should will. Within sight of its heaving billows, within sound of its mournful voice, with wan, fevered face tenderly lifted to the cooling breeze he looked out wistfully upon the ocean's changing wonders; on its fair sails whitening in the moving light; on its restless waves rolling shoreward to break and die beneath the noonday sun; on the red clouds of evening washing low to the horizon; on the serene and shining pathway of the stars. Let us think that his dying eyes read a mystic meaning which only the rapt and parting soul may know. Let us believe that in the silence of the receding world he heard the great waves breaking on the farther shore that fell already upon his wasted brow in the breath of the early morning.

Preparing for Execution.

FORT GRANT, March 2.—All necessary preparations have been completed for execution of the Indian scouts, Dead Shot, Dandy Jim and Skippy, murderers of Capt. Hentig and six soldiers of the sixth cavalry at Cibicu creek last August. The prisoners were interviewed to-day by Post Commander and Chaplain Mitchell, through an interpreter, and were advised of to-morrow being their last day on earth. They appeared reconciled to their fate, and said that as it could not be avoided the sooner they would go the better. Dandy Jim is the only one upon whom sentence has a dampening influence. He is young and robust, and consequently dreads the fate in store. The gallows which had been constructed at some distance from where the prisoners are confined was placed to-day nearer, and as the prisoners looked through the iron bars it loomed up before them in all its horror. After seeing it, Dandy Jim declined to partake of any food, but Dead Shot and Skippy made light of it by laughing and mimicking the manner in which they should die by the rope. They have no fears of the hereafter, and say their hands are clean, meaning by this circumstance that if nothing can be done for them in this life, they are prepared to die. Every precaution has been taken to carefully guard them. Two troops of cavalry have arrived here as additional force in the event of any disturbance. The execution will be conducted with as little demonstration as possible.

GENERAL NEWS.

Great Loss of Life and Property by Floods in the South.

SEVERAL COUNTIES ALMOST ENTIRELY UNDER WATER.

A Cyclone Damages Navasota, Texas—Railroad Accidents, Suicides and Indian Massacre.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

HELENA, March 2.—The river did not rise here today as expected. The river from above began rising tonight again, and will continue. A big break is reported in the levee just below Concordia. The people are panic stricken. Four negroes and one white man were drowned. Wm. Blackburn, of Laconia Circle, arrived to-day and is negotiating for a steamer to remove stock and people from that flooded district. He says many negroes are starving and others are feeding on putrid carcasses of drowned cattle and such game as can be procured. Whole families are subsisting on half a peck of meal per week. The distress all along the river below is unparalleled. News reached the city this afternoon that the water in the St. Francis river bottom or sunken lands is rising an inch per hour. This, if true, will put us to thinking before the week has passed. Some people were drowned, among the number being Heyne, shipping clerk for Frank & Reinache. He tried to go to the assistance of Mrs. Bradshaw, and was drawn into the channel of the break and drowned. There are no provisions for the poor. The break occurred about 100 yards above Duncan's. We have sent to Terrine for the steamer Plowboy to come and take the women and children to Memphis. They are suffering greatly, having lost everything they possessed, including clothing. They have no personal property saved. It is impossible to describe the fearful havoc and destruction the waters have made. Besides the break at Riverton there are two more, one at Wrighton, a mile below, and another at Judge Mills' place, two miles below Riverton. Mules, horses, cows and goats pass continually.

MEMPHIS, March 2.—Private letters from Riverton, Miss., 160 miles below Memphis, and 170 miles above Vicksburg, say the levee broke Monday night and the loss of property is fearful.

GREENVILLE, MISS., March 2.—There was a perfect wreck of the Bolivar levees on Tuesday morning. Riverton, Wade, Clay and Badget levees broke through and Concordia is reported as having broken the day before. These breaks will overflow every plantation in Bolivar county. The river fell four inches last night and is still falling rapidly. Bolivar breaks will probably save the levees of Washington and Issaquena counties, but the loss to this district of levees alone is not less than $130,000. Clay and Badget are the largest levees in the district except Hushpuckana. Several lives are reported lost. Rosedale, county seat of Bolivar, is six feet under water. The Ledger office and other houses are washed away. Clark and front levees on lake Beulah are gone. This overflows what was left of Bolivar county. Williams' bayou levee in this county is broken and all northern Washington and back lands throughout Issaquena and Sharkey will go under. A number of people were drowned at Riverton.

LATER.—In addition to the breaks above stated there was one at Hughes' front, between Wade and Clark's. Accounts of suffering and loss of life continue to come in, and exceed anything that ever attended previous Mississippi inundations. These crevasses are all above Greenville.

Drowned by the Flood.

VICKSBURG, March 2.—The river is rising slowly. Very serious breaks have occurred which will put the northern part of Washington and back lands of Issaquena and Sharkey counties under water. A number of people were drowned at Riverton and there is considerable suffering and loss of life at other points.

Floods in New York.

ALBANY, March 2.—Stores along the river front are full of water and the river is still rising. Advices from the north represent the rivers higher than for years and much damage done to bridges and factories.

Windy Texas.

NAVASOTA, March 2.—A storm on Monday night did material damage in this neighborhood, uprooting trees, blowing down fences and some houses. Two large gin houses near town were demolished. A tree fell on the house of a man named Williams, near Anderson, killing a child and crippling an old woman.

The Walking Match Score.

NEW YORK, March 2—10 A. M.—Rowell, 383; Sullivan, 348; Hazel, 375; Noremac, 321; Hughes, 354; Fitzgerald, 350; Hart, 315.

At 1 o'clock Hazael was two laps ahead of Rowell. 3 P. M.—Hazael, 402; Rowell, 392; Fitzgerald, 380; Sullivan, 371; Hughes, 355; Hart, 366; Noremac, 351.

Frightful Railway Accident.

PARKERSBURG, W. VA., March 2.—The west bound passenger train on the Baltimore and Ohio road last night ran upon a stone at the toll gate, throwing all the cars except the sleeper from the track. The engine ran into the store of Geo. W. James. The store and train except the sleeper were burned. John Gigley and John Bremer, engineer and fireman, were instantly killed. The mail and express matter was mostly saved.

Railroad Accident.

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., March 2.—The engine and baggage car of a passenger train on the Ogdensburg & Lake Champlain road ran into a washout to-day, killing James Chambers engineer, and Henry Petrie fireman. The express messenger and baggage men were badly injured, but no passengers hurt.

Found Dead.

CINCINNATI, March 2.—Edward G. Turner, brother of the president of the chamber of commerce, was found dead in his room with a pistol ball in his right temple this morning. He had recently been robbed and it is thought the shot was fired accidentally, while under the influence of chloroform, and imagining robbers were present.

Murder and Suicide.

CHICAGO, March 2.—Orville B. Roe of La Salle, Ill., an idle, drunken carpenter, shot his wife because she refused to longer support him, and then killed himself. Five children were found clinging to the woman's body as she lay upon the floor.

Killed by Apaches.

DENVER, March 1.—Thos. Mathison, a Mormon of St. George, Utah, arrived here to-day from a trip through Arizona, and reports his wife and daughter and two Mormon men killed by Tonto Apaches near Colorado Chiquito, in the San Francisco mountains.

THE NORTHWEST.

Eastern Oregon.

Grass is growing on the hills of Union county.

Baker county stock raisers are getting an average of $15 70 per head for their cattle.

Taylor Green has bought P. McCoffin's band of sheep, in Union county, numbering 1044, at $3 per head.

Miss Kate McGinnis, only daughter of Luke and Lucretia McGinnis, died near Island city, Union county, on the 18th ult., of consumption, aged 20 years.

Mr. John Moran, an old resident of the Dalles, died while sitting in his chair at the Jackson hotel on the 24th ult. His health has been infirm for many years, and his death, though sudden, was not surprising.

Last Sunday night another attempt was made by Wasco county prisoners to escape from the jail at the Dalles. When the plan was discovered they had already succeeded in cutting a hole through the floor nearly large enough to admit a man's body. Sheriff Storrs spoiled their little game and patched up the old structure until the next time.

The store of John Madden at Lone Rock, Wasco county, and his stock of general merchandise, was destroyed by fire on February 22d. The clerk was absent at the time, and when the fire was discovered the flames had progressed so far as to be impossible to control, and the building was entirely destroyed. A house adjoining, owned by J. E. Parents, was also destroyed. Mr. Parents's loss is $4000, but Madden's loss will amount to $6000.

Western Oregon.

The smallpox patient in upper Astoria is convalescent and there is thus far no signs that any one else has contracted the disease.

Isaac Davis of North Yamhill died at his home on the 27th ult. of cancer. He was an old and highly respected citizen of Yamhill county.

Smelt are running heavily in the Columbia river. They are of fine quality. There are two tons of them lying at the dock at Eagle Cliff. Some few spring salmon have also been caught at Westport.

Washington Territory.

The settlers along the Nooksack river have subscribed upwards of $350 to clear the jam out of that stream between Nooksack Crossing and Lynden. When this obstruction is removed the river will be navigable for light draught steamers a distance of 30 miles.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

A teachers' institute for Lane county will be held in Eugene City, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, (March 7th, 8th, 9th and 10th, 1882.) All the teachers in the public schools of the county are earnestly requested to be present at and participate in the exercises and receive the benefits of institute. Teachers and others attending the session of the institute can have the benefits of reduced fare on the railroad by purchasing round trip tickets at the points where they take the cars.

L. J. POWELL,
Superintendent Public Instruction.

TELEGRAPHIC SPARKS.

The loss of four fishing schooners from the Gloucester fleet has made 22 widows and 62 orphans.

A collier has been wrecked off Yarmouth, England, and 23 persons drowned.

Colonel Robinson in the Mason court martial yesterday testified to Mason's good character and argument commenced.

John Johnson, foreman of the mill yard at Big Rapids, Mich., was killed in a quarrel on the 1st inst., by Valentine Kohler.

CONGRESSIONAL PROCEEDINGS.

Senate.

WASHINGTON, March 2.

[illegible], from the committee on commerce, reported favorably with amendments the house bill to promote the efficiency of the life saving service and to encourage saving of life from shipwreck.

Amendments to first two sections of the senate bill provide a pension for two years for widows and children of keepers and surfmen who may lose their lives while in service, and for payment of salaries to keepers and members of crews during time of sickness or disability resulting from wounds or disease contracted in line of duty. Placed on calendar.

At 1:30 the senate resumed consideration of the Chinese bill, and Grover of Oregon took the floor in its advocacy. He said:

Mr. President: In discussing the bill now before the senate I do not deem it necessary to enter upon any detailed statement of the evils of Chinese immigration to this country. Debates heretofore held in this chamber upon this subject have sufficiently developed the facts lying at the foundation of the opposition manifested by the people of the Pacific states and territories to the influx of Chinese among them. Suffice it to say that it is a common feeling there that this class of immigration is seriously hurtful to their present development as a prominent part of the American union. It is hurtful to the moral foundation of society; it is hurtful to the success of American industries; it is hurtful to the progress of our infant settlements, inasmuch as it supplants a large class of European and American labor, which is our chief reliance for peopling the new states.

The question of encouragement or restraint of Chinese immigration presents a deeper problem than that of mere effect upon our present well being. The ruling characteristics of the Chinese as a people are so much at variance with our own and so opposed to the purposes of our civilization that encouragement or restriction of this class of immigration presents the alternative of choosing for the Pacific states and territories between the institutions of America and the institutions of China.

The speaker said the soil and climate of California had an attractiveness for the Chinese which did not pertain to other parts of the country, and proceeded to argue the reason for our welcoming the coming of European immigration did not apply to the Mongolian. The people of Oregon had constantly and persistently demanded the restriction of Chinese immigration. It had been said that the hereditary policy of our government demands of us to open our ports to the oppressed of all nations, even though this be against the wishes and interest of the great body of the American people, but the contemporary acts of the founders of our institutions should be considered in construing their purposes, and these showed that they looked only to European immigrants to help and sustain them in their work. This was apparent in their treatment of the Indian and the African. With the exception of William Penn, our ancestors proceeded to drive out the aborigines with fire and sword, and to occupy the land for themselves. They did not attempt to civilize the red men or make them a part of the nation, but treated them as aliens and outcasts. Their conduct must be construed as being a limit to the meaning of their public declaration that all men are created equal and endowed with the inalienable right to liberty and the pursuit of happiness. They undoubtedly meant men like themselves, who were joined in the bonds of civil society, and when they dedicated this country to be an asylum for the oppressed of all nations, they undoubtedly meant the people of all nations with characters and conditions similar to theirs. This appears more clearly in their treatment of the African, whom they denied the ballot and citizenship, and who was transported here by old and New England and sold into slavery. A definition of their general declaration, and one which they thought compared with the action of the founders of the government, Mr. Grover said was contained in the constitution of Oregon, which set forth that all men when they form a social compact are equal in rights which would allow those who form a government to control its political affairs and frame its laws with reference to the greatest good to the greatest number of those who enter into the social compact.

Grover continued his remarks at some length, closing with an argument in support of his amendment offered Tuesday and was followed by Farley, who replied to Hoar.

At the conclusion of Grover's speech (which was read from manuscript) Farley took the floor and speaking extemporaneously, said he had no disposition to detain the senate unnecessarily, and especially as his colleague (Miller) had elaborately presented the facts on which the measure was based. He thought proper, however, to reply to some of the points made by the senator from Massachusetts (Hoar) whose speech he had not had the opportunity to examine as it did not appear in the Record this morning. That senator had taken the position that the treaty had been forced upon China and he (Farley) now challenged the production of a single fact which warranted that conclusion. He protested against the assumption as one entirely unwarranted. The treaty had been voluntarily entered into by China and the bill was the product of the concession that the United States should legislate, as was now proposed. As to the "higher ground" taken by that senator of a violation of the principle of the declaration of independence, he (Farley) maintained the absolute inherent right of any two governments to regulate by treaty stipulations the coming and going of persons to and from their limits. The stipulations on this case had been set forth by the treaty. Taking up Senator Morton's minority Chinese report from the congressional Chinese commission of 1876, from which, he said, Hoar had quoted very meagerly, to show that the author sided with the Chinese, Farley read Senator Morton's conclusion, in which he said: "The Chinese cannot be protected in the Pacific states while remaining in their alien condition, without representation in legislature or congress, or without a voice in the selection of officers. Surrounded by fierce and in many respects unscrupulous enemies, the law would be found insufficient to screen them from persecution. Complete protection can be given them only by allowing them to become citizens and acquire the suffrage, when their votes would become important in elections and their persecution in great part converted into kindly solicitation." Farley thereupon said he would now put the question broadly and squarely to the Massachusetts senator, whether he was in favor to-day of permitting Chinese to exercise the right of suffrage. Being obliged to repeat his question in consequence of Hoar's attention having being temporarily diverted, Farley again read Senator Morton's conclusion and asked the senator from Massachusetts if he endorsed it.

Mr. Hoar—It strikes me that this is rather an unusual method of conducting debates in this body. I made certain points in regard to this question as well as I could, and for the senator who replies to me to call me up to answer certain points in his catechism, is a novel proceeding. But I will answer him if he will answer me this: Who are the fierce and unscrupulous enemies against whom it has been impossible to protect this race?

Farley replied that he supposed that a large portion of those to whom Senator Morton referred were persons driven from employment by the influx of the Chinese, and exasperated by what they believed a trampling upon their rights by inferior laborers.

Hoar—Does not the report show that wages of white laborers have risen and the wealth of the state increased in consequence of the influx of these people.

Farley—I do not know whether it does or not.

Hoar—I will now answer the senator's question. I do endorse the sentiment he has read.

Farley—Then I understand the senator to favor naturalization of Chinese and their enfranchisement. That I assume is one of the reasons for his opposition to the bill.

Hoar—I am in favor of admitting to privileges of American citizenship, under proper limitations, every human being, white, black, yellow, copper-colored or of whatever other color nature may have seen fit to use in painting men's skins, having first learned that they have abandoned all allegiance to other governments, and that they are fit in character, intelligence and the qualities that make good citizens, and that they are attached to our government. I would have this ascertained by an inquiry into the character of the individual applicant and not looking at the color of his skin. I would be quite ready to admit to American citizenship, Yung Wing to whom they gave the degree of doctor of laws at Yale College last year. Or the learned and admirable gentleman who died at Cambridge last week, to the sorrow of that community, as I would the persons whom Senator Morton describes as fierce and unscrupulous ruffians.

Farley—The report does not make use of the term ruffians, and I did not use it.

Hoar—I will add that.

Farley—I have no doubt that the people of California will be very thankful to the senator from Massachusetts for adding that addendum to Senator Morton's report. At 3 he yielded to a motion offered by Edmunds for an executive session, which was adopted and the bill went over as unfinished business for to-morrow.

House.

Platt, from the committee on patents, reported favorably a bill to regulate practice in patents, and also adversely a bill for refunding fees in all cases of void registration of trade marks.

Vance offered a resolution reciting the cost of collecting internal revenue tax in the sixth collection district of North Carolina, was nearly 60 per cent., being greater than that of any other district in the United States; that many and serious charges against officials are openly made in newspapers and elsewhere and are generally believed; and providing for appointment by the president of the senate of a committee of three to investigate charges and complaints, with power to compel attendance of witnesses, etc.

Sherman regarded the resolution as extraordinary and in the nature of an executive order. He referred to the matter pending in executive session and before the committee on finance, and would not object to calling on the treasury department for information, but he certainly objected to a recital about which the senate could know nothing.

Vance said he had twice applied for the information he desired, once by a senate resolution and then by letter to the commissioner of internal revenue, and in each instance had encountered clear and unmistakable evidence from his demand, that the matter had been public scandal in North Carolina for ten years, and as he wanted to get at the truth he would insist upon a vote on the resolution at the earliest moment. The matter was laid over under objection.

Burrows, of Michigan, gave a brief explanation of the various provisions of the bill, asserting that the committee in drafting the measure had endeavored, while not crippling the diplomatic service, to strengthen the consular service by which would be widened the avenues of trade.

Whitthorne, of Tennessee, in a speech, commented on the foreign policy of the administration of President Garfield. The steps taken by Secretary Blaine to modify the Clayton-Bulwer treaty and his attempts to bring about an understanding between powers representing the American people in American governments, in regard to the question being purely an American one, he (Whitthorne) was in thorough accord therewith, because he believed they were the first steps taken towards a more vigorous foreign policy. He contended the proposed "peace congress" was not only proper but vitally important but Garfield was dead and Blaine was no longer secretary of state. The great west and enterprising east did not govern. It was the shadow of Wall street speculative capital which, for fear of an offense to foreign nations, withheld the brave words which representatives of power, energy and honor had spoken. The United States would not move when the honor of commerce and trade demanded protection, lest forsooth the jealousy and ill will of some foreign power should be created. Was there a lower depth to it to be reached? Let it be said to the honor of the late administration that it seemed to have been imbued with the doctrines of old patriots whose deeds illustrated with lustre the greatest and brightest pages of American history.

In course of the discussion, Orth, of Ind., spoke from the democratic side of the chamber, and was frequently interrupted by Hewitt, of N. Y., and Stockslager and Holman of Indiana, but the subject of the interruptions and replies thereto were inaudible on the republican side on account of great confusion. The colloquy between Orth and Holman had reference to the loyalty of Indiana democrats during the war, but was cut short by Kasson, who claimed the floor. He regretted that the gentleman from N. Y., (Hewitt), had brought up a question which was totally alien to any subject contained in the bill. When the correspondence of the state department was published he thought the gentleman from New York would be surprised and gratified to know that while all noise on the subject was going on on this floor the state department has been diligently and energetically at work to secure rights which belonged to citizens of the United States. He had been glad to listen to the speech of the gentleman from Tennessee (Whitthorne). He must differ from him on one point. The gentleman had attempted to draw a line between the policy of the late secretary of state and the present secretary of state, and had passed the bounds of accuracy in defining that difference. He submitted that the gentleman would find on examination there had been no definite change of policy, and that there had been no change in the mind of the president as to the object to be accomplished. He would find that the new secretary of state coming into office without knowledge of unpublished correspondence which he was examining, had discovered a critical condition of things which pledged his country to a piece of a diplomatic action that was the predecessor of war and the result of which might have been such as to make it impossible to escape without a war administration. Was it surprising that the secretary of state, entering under such circumstances should cry "Halt! let me look into this thing and its consequences?" Was it surprising that the president should say to that officer, "Hold! until we understand this correspondence?" The present secretary of state had asked practically for more time to consider the step which had been taken and which was of such vast importance to the honor of the country and her material interests. He (Kasson) ventured the statement that the secretary of state had never withdrawn the offer of the aid of the United States to a peaceful settlement and that he had not desired to withhold its legitimate influence for the salvation of Peru, if her salvation were possible. He had never withdrawn definitely the proposed action of the conference of American states for the purpose of preserving the peace of those countries. He (Kasson) asked the house and country to wait until the correspondence was published. Then would come the time for censure, if censure were to come. When a practical measure was presented to strengthen the ties, political and commercial, that bound the United States and South American states, a majority of the republican side of the house and executive branch of the government would be found ready to take action.

CALIFORNIA.

Run Over and Killed.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 2.—Yesterday morning Prof. J. W. Herre, living on Washington street, Oakland, was knocked down by the Berkeley passenger train at Watt's station and instantly killed. Mr. Herre was teacher of music and at one time occupied a position in the old college of California, but of late years had been addicted to heavy drinking.

Reduction of Time.

The general telegraph agent of the Central Pacific Railroad has received a dispatch from New Orleans stating that the first shipment of freight from San Francisco to New Orleans via the S. P. R. R., reached its destination on the 27th ult. The shipment consisted of California wines and was only fourteen and a half days on the road. By the old route of transportation over forty days were required for shipment of freight to reach that point, a reduction of over twenty-five days time is thus made by the new road.

Anti-Chinese Meeting.

A special meeting was held this afternoon by the board of supervisors to listen to a special message by Mayor Blake on the subject of the Chinese invasion. The mayor's message was brief and argumentative, yet in its tone fully abreast of public sentiment on this topic. He appreciates the difficulty of presenting new ideas on the subject or of presenting ideas already advanced with more strength and force than they have hitherto been addressed to the public.

It is reported that 40,000 tickets have been issued at Hongkong to be used immediately after the passage of the Chinese bill in the senate, by Chinese intending to emigrate to the United States.

Concur with Mayor Blake.

At a special meeting of the board of supervisors this afternoon resolutions were unanimously adopted to the effect that the board fully concur in the views expressed by Mayor Blake in his special message on the subject of Chinese invasion, as to the disastrous and blighting effects of coolie immigration, and earnestly petition congress to pass the bill now pending, as well as heartily approving the action of senators and representatives in congress in their efforts to procure proper and effective legislation on the subject, and requesting Mayor Blake to telegraph Senator Miller the full text of the resolutions adopted.

Suicides.

Edward Lang, a carpenter by avocation and native of Germany, aged 35 years, committed suicide this afternoon by cutting his throat, at 447½ Jessie street. Despondency was the cause of the deed. He leaves no family.

This afternoon August Reiss, recently from Butte City, Montana, committed suicide by taking a dose of laudanum, at No. 2 Eighth street. Deceased was a native of Germany, aged 37 years. Reiss was married but had not been living with his wife for some time.

NEVADA.

Comstock Notes.

VIRGINIA, March 2.—Water at Yellow Jacket shaft stands about four feet above the 2300 foot level. Pumps are run no faster than necessary to hold the water at that point.

At Savage the 2100 foot level is fast cooling off, and in a few days they will start a drift west for the purpose of crosscutting the vein on that level.

At Chollar Potosi they will soon resume work on the 2100 foot level. Sinking was resumed this morning on the shaft, and they will sink to the 2500 level and then connect with the C. & C. shaft.

A promising body of ore is reported coming in on the 2500-foot level of Union, 500 feet south and some 80 feet east of a point where ore is now being taken out through the winze. Men will resume work in the south drift of the 2500-foot level of Mexican at 7 o'clock in the morning.

Anti-Chinese Meeting Called.

A preliminary meeting of citizens was held this evening and an anti-Chinese mass meeting called for Saturday evening at the opera house.

Frozen to Death.

The dead body of John Swattens, a German, 62 years old, has been found on the roadside 20 miles south of Dayton, in Pine Nut valley. The body was frozen and partially devoured by coyotes. The old man had a chicken ranch and was known as "chicken John." It is supposed that he laid down while intoxicated. A little dog was still trying to guard the remains.

Killed his Wife.

EUREKA, March 2.—C. J. Lansing, a leading attorney of this place, shot and killed his wife about 7 o'clock this evening. Lansing then walked to the jail and gave himself up to the sheriff, saying he had shot his wife, but declined to make further statements. The deceased was shot a little above the right eye, the ball passing through the brain and causing death almost instantly.

Attempted Assassination of the Queen at Windsor Station.

A CRANK FIRES AT HER WHILE ENTERING A CARRIAGE.

Bradlaugh again Elected by the Voters of Northampton to Represent them in Parliament.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

WINDSOR, March 2.—As the queen was entering her carriage this evening, a man in the station yard deliberately fired a pistol at her. The man who was a miserable looking object, was immediately seized by several policemen and taken to Windsor police station. No one was hurt.

LONDON, March 2—6:30 P. M.—Queen Victoria was fired at while at Windsor railroad station to-day. She escaped unhurt. The miscreant gives his name as Roderick MacLean. He was with difficulty rescued from the crowd. The queen arrived at Windsor about 5:25. She has been in London since Tuesday, where she gave a drawing room Wednesday in honor of Princess Helena of Waldeck, who is to marry Prince Leopold. A crowd assembled at Buckingham palace this morning in hopes to see the queen drive out. The demeanor of the people was cordial as usual.

There was a large crowd of spectators awaiting the queen's arrival at Windsor. She walked across the platform of the railway station to a carriage which was waiting to take her to the castle. John Brown had already ascended to a seat behind the carriage, when a man standing at the entrance to the station yard, among the spectators, pointed a pistol at the carriage and fired. To judge from the report the pistol was not heavily loaded. The queen, who was probably not aware of what had happened, was immediately driven to the castle, but before she passed the man had been seized by the superintendent of the Borough police, who was standing near by. He was also violently seized by the crowd, and only rescued when three or four policemen came to the superintendent's assistance. The pistol was captured by one of the crowd. MacLean was miserably clad. He was taken into High street and thence conveyed to the police station in a cab.

7:30 P. M.—The queen drove off to the castle immediately after she was fired at. The miscreant was followed to the police station by a large crowd of people. Newspaper hawkers are now crying the news in the streets. It has caused great excitement.

As soon as the queen arrived at the castle she ordered an equerry to proceed to the depot to enquire if any one had been hurt. The report of the pistol was sharp but not loud. MacLean apparently intended firing again when the revolver, which seemed to be a new one, was knocked from his hand by a bystander and handed to the police. Eton scholars were prominent in the attempt to lynch MacLean. Ponsonby, the queen's secretary, proceeded to the police station and after obtaining all information possible telegraphed to Gladstone the facts of the assault. It is understood the queen has not sustained any shock. MacLean is said to be an inhabitant of the South seas. The general opinion is the act was the result of lunacy.

LONDON, March 2.—The Russo-Jewish committee have prepared a statement confirming reports of outrages on Jews in Russia, including many cases of murder and rape, which the recent British consular reports discredited.

FROM EUGENE.

Budget of News from Lane Co. Concerning Weather, Prospects of Crops, Improvements and Politics.

[REGULAR CORRESPONDENCE OF THE OREGONIAN.]

EUGENE CITY, Feb. 27, 1882.

In this part of the country we are anxiously awaiting the clearing up of bad weather and wish for a continued spell of fine weather as our farmers are ready for sowing and would in a short time, if circumstances were favorable, have a large acreage in spring grain. From inquiries made among farmers located on some of the best wheat land in the county we learn that the fall sown grain is not as thrifty and healthy as it was last spring, owing no doubt to the winter season being much colder than that of last year. We shall have a larger acreage of spring sown grain this year than for several years past, but cannot expect under the most favorable circumstances as heavy a crop as that of last year. I also find upon inquiry that most of the grain stored last fall has been sold and but little surplus grain above seeding requirements remains in the county, showing that our farmers have adopted the best policy, that of selling when paying prices are offered. There is a good healthy feeling among farmers and business men in relation to the prospects of the future. Everybody is convinced that Lane Co. will become one of the best farming sections of Oregon and in a few years will be the garden spot of our young and growing state, caused mainly by the enterprise and industry of our citizens and the varied system of farming being inaugurated.

Many improvements may be noted in the matter of dwelling and business houses. We might point to the enterprise of Messrs. Hays and Lucky in fitting up their drug store in such a manner that it cannot be excelled in point of elegance and convenience by any establishment of similar character in the state of Oregon; also to the great alteration being made in the large brick store of Mr. A. V. Peters, all being made for the convenience and expediting of business.

In the matter of politics and elections our citizens are taking unusual interest. The first thing to engage our attention is that of city election, which takes place the first Monday in April. The election of councilmen and local officers have for the past two years been worked up with far more zeal and a greater degree of interest than even any of our county, state or presidential elections, but the probabilities are that little interest will be shown in the selection of local officers, as those in office have given satisfaction; but much interest will be centered on the election of three councilmen. The term of office of Mr. A. V. Peters, Mr. John Sloan and Wm. Edris will expire. These gentlemen whilst in office have shown rare integrity and interest in all that affects the welfare of our citizens, and have labored hard to enact laws calculated to strengthen the moral tone of our citizens, and have shown strong fidelity to the interest of the taxpayers, and should our citizens desire to nominate these gentlemen again for the same position they would be elected.

In the death of Hon. J. M. Thompson our taxpayers have lost a good friend and a great champion, as it will be remembered that through Judge Thompson's efforts in the state legislature the corporate limits of Eugene was extended and a rate of taxation fixed by law more than sufficient to cover all necessary expenses. Eugene, like many other towns and cities, has a class of people who are always urging more or less improvements and more expenses because such measures would not affect them as far as tax paying is concerned, as they are mostly non-taxpayers. A quiet but very determined effort will be made at the coming meeting of our state legislature to have our city charter amended so as to increase the taxation on city property and rush into improvements, etc., that will not materially benefit anyone but the parties securing jobs and contracts. The first effort will be made in the selection of councilmen for the next city election.

WILLAMETTE VALLEY WEATHER.

The following report made up by Mr. T. Pearce, observer at Eola, Polk Co., gives in convenient form the state of the weather in the center of Willamette valley during the coldest month of the winter of 1881-2.

During February, 1882, there were 13 days during which rain and snow fell, with an aggregate of 9.06 inches of water, 3 clear days and 12 cloudy days other than those on which rain and snow fell.

The mean temperature for the month was 35.99 deg.

Highest daily mean temperature 46 deg. on the 25th. Lowest daily mean temperature, 21 deg. on the 18th. Mean temperature for the month, at 2 o'clock P. M., 42.69 deg.

Highest temperature during the month, 48 deg., at 2 o'clock P. M., on the 14th and 25th. Lowest temperature, 13 deg., at 7 o'clock A. M., on the 13th.

The snow remaining on the ground at the close of January had all disappeared on the 3d. More or less snow fell on the 9th, 10th, 11th, 12th, 19th, 22d, and 2d, in the aggregate 9 inches, all of which had disappeared on the 23d, excepting that on the 19th and 22d, it mostly melted as fast as it fell. Frosts occurred on the 1st, 6th, 11th, 13th, 14th, 15th, 16th, 18th, 20th, 21st and 24th.

The prevailing winds during the month were from the north 9 days, south 6 days, southwest 12 days, northwest 1 day.

During February, 1881, there were 21 days during which rain and snow fell, and an aggregate of 10.62 inches of water, 1 clear and 7 cloudy days.

Mean temperature for the month 41.00 deg. Highest mean temperature for the month 66 deg., on the [illegible]th. Lowest daily mean temperature for the month 29 deg., on the 21th.

Unavailing were the efforts of Mr. W. M. F. Quinlan, superintendent of glass works, Crystal City, Mo., to cure himself of a most troublesome sore on his knee. One week's faithful use of St. Jacobs Oil cured him completely, much to his great comfort.

FRIDAY MORNING, MARCH 3, 1882.

THE AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT.

Agriculture is, and always will be, the great American industry. It is the source of nearly all our income from other countries and the basis of our prosperity and wealth. The project of establishing a distinct agricultural department, long discussed in a general way, has been presented to the house of representatives in well considered form and will come before congress during the present session. The bill provides for the appointment of a secretary and assistant secretary of agriculture by the president, the latter to be practical agriculturists. Bureaus are to be organized, the chiefs of which are to be appointed by the president for four years. The bureau of agricultural products shall include the division of botany, entomology and chemistry. The chief shall be a practical agriculturist, who shall investigate the modes of farming in the several states and territories, and report such practical information as shall tend to increase the profits of the farmer, respecting the various methods of crops most profitable in the several sections, the preferable varieties of seeds, vines, plants, fruits, fertilizers, implements, buildings and similar matters. The bureau of animal industry is to be in charge of a competent veterinary surgeon, who shall investigate and report on the number, value and condition of domestic animals of the United States, their protection, growth and use, causes, prevention and care of contagious, communicable or other diseases, and the kinds, races or breeds best adapted to the several sections for profitable raising.

The bureau of lands is to be in charge of a chief, who shall investigate and report upon the resources or capabilities of public or other lands, for farming, stock raising, timber, manufacturing, mining or other industrial uses and all the powers and duties vested in the commission now known as the geological survey, with all the clerks, employes and agents and all the instruments, records, books, papers, etc., are transferred to the department of agriculture, and the secretary may, through said bureau, institute such investigations and collect such information, facts and statistics relative to mines and mining of the United States, as may be deemed of value and importance.

The bureaus of statistics shall be in charge of a chief, who shall collect and report the agricultural statistics of the United States, and, in addition, all important information or statistics relating to industrial education and agricultural colleges; to labor and wages in this and other countries; to markets and prices; to the mode and cost of transporting agricultural products and live stock to the final market; to the demand, supply and prices in foreign markets; to the location and number of products of manufacturing establishments of whatever sort; their sources of raw material, methods, markets and prices, and to such commercial or other conditions as may affect the market value of farm products or interests of the industrial classes of the United States. The secretary is authorized to establish rules in this bureau, and make such monthly or other reports as he shall deem of most effect for the prompt dissemination of reliable information respecting the crops and domestic or foreign markets, as will be of service to the farmer or other industrial interests of the United States.

The secretary shall receive the same salary as the secretaries of other executive departments. The salary of the assistant secretary shall be the same as paid to the assistant secretary of the interior department. The salary of the chiefs of bureaus shall be the same as paid to the commissioner of Indian affairs. The scheme of an agricultural department is good, and its plan set forth above seems to be complete and practical. It should be well considered and if found sufficient, adopted. THE OREGONIAN will be pleased to hear from practical farmers on the subject. The so-called agricultural bureau of the interior department has always been in bad hands, and instead of being an aid to agriculture has done positive harm.

CAUSE FOR ALARM.

THE OREGONIAN has urged deepening of the ship-channel from the ocean to Portland, and improvement of the Columbia river bar, as measures of first importance to the whole section whose products pass out to market through the Columbia river. We have shown by comparative rates of ship charters, and by statements of lighterage charges, that wheat on dock at Portland would be worth six cents per cental more than the current rate, but for the dangers and delays of our rivers. This loss which the people of Oregon have suffered with patience not above reproach, aggregates many millions of dollars. But a greater danger threatens. Shipping papers announce that four vessels—the Syren and Blue Jacket, from Hong Kong, the Nonantum, from Callao, and the Niagara from Buenos Ayres—which were to have sailed seeking to the Columbia river, have, "owing to the dangers and expenses of getting in and out over the Columbia bar," been directed toward other ports. And we hear a rumor that vessels drawing more than nineteen feet and bringing iron for Oregon railroads, will be directed to unload on Puget sound. Soon we shall not be able to get ships even by payment of six cents per cental extra toll, but shall have to send our wheat across to the sound, losing the local business of the ships which carry our grain to market, besides paying the transfer rate to the shipping point. This may be averted by improvement of the river. The new tugs, which it is proposed to put on the bar will do much, but new tugs alone will not make the passage for large ships absolutely safe, nor retrieve the reputation which repeated disasters have given the bar. Oregon could still ship her own grain and Portland could still remain the business centre of the northwest if the Columbia river never again floated an ocean vessel, but we would sacrifice much in losing our shipping and we must not lose it. The bar must be improved and the rivers must be opened. This matter is not more important to Portland than to other sections of the state. The farmer who produces wheat is the loser by increased cost of shipping, not the Portland shipper, who trims his sails to suit the breeze.

Several English papers have, during the past two or three months, been showing up in the most hideous colors the effects of the Russian persecution of the Jews. Public meetings have been held to protest against such persecution and much sympathy has been drawn forth. Labouchere, as usual, takes the other side of the question and advises the English people to look at home—Ireland for example—before they attempt to criticise the conduct of any foreign government toward its subjects. The persecution of the Jews in Russia and Poland, he points out, is not the result of ill-feeling toward the Hebrews on account of their religion. The Jews in Russia and Poland are what the Gombeen men are in Ireland. They advance money to the peasants at usurious interest, and it is as usurers rather than as religionists that they are persecuted. Mr. Labouchere, fails to remember that this phase of the matter has been put forward by the Russian government; and it is the only pretence it possibly could advance to mitigate the feelings of indignation aroused among all peoples against its treatment of the Russian Hebrews. But the most serious charges cannot excuse—nothing can excuse—the outrages of the past few months.

The Louisville Courier-Journal is not pleased with the recent Tennessee debt decision. It says: "Tennessee has been made the victim of the demagogue; of the political adventurer, of the financial shark; of the bribe-giver and the bribe-taker. She has been betrayed not by carpet-baggers and interlopers—but by her own honored sons. Men in high places have stooped to dishonorable practices; have tampered with her good name; have speculated on her dishonor; have maligned her and have slandered her; have made and broken promises to her; have deceived her and misled her, and now even her highest court surrenders to the mob, stabs the public credit, descends to legal jugglery, makes instead of interpreting the law, subserviently bows to what it is told is the demand of the people, and in defense of state sovereignty joins the rabble in its maledictions against 'bloated bondholders.'"

The manufacture of wooden nutmegs and hams now has its parallel. American cotton bales received at Manchester, England, contain an adulteration of sand amounting to from 10 to 25 per cent. of their weight. The sand taken from the cotton is wheeled out of the factories by the barrowfull. One consumer says he found 94 pounds of this adulterating material in the middle of a single bale. Another expresses the belief that the town of Oldham purchases at the price of cotton thousands of tons of sand every year. We have plenty of sand to sell, but it is not much to our credit when we pass it off for cotton. Neither do such frauds help our foreign trade. Honesty is the best policy.

For the third time the electors of Northampton have returned Bradlaugh to the house of commons. He was unseated the first time because he declined to go through the farce of taking an oath contrary to his belief and which he did not consider binding; and the second time because he did not claim his seat in a sufficiently meek and lowly manner. The religious scruples of the house do not amount to much, the real objection to Bradlaugh being that he is an ardent democrat. He may get his seat this time. The English love of justice will not long see a man persecuted for opinion's sake.

President Johnson and Secretary McCulloch found the national debt to be $2,755,995,000, and the annual interest charge, $151,000,000. At the close of Mr. Johnson's term, his secretary transferred to the administration of Gen. Grant a debt of $2,525,000,000, with an interest charge of $124,400,000 a year. In the eight years of Gen. Grant his secretaries, chief of whom was Mr. Boutwell, reduced the principal of the debt to $2,088,781,000, and the interest to $94,400,000. During Hayes' term, Sherman being secretary, the principal was reduced to $1,879,956,000, and the interest to $76,845,000.

Dr. Newman recently left the Methodist church to preach to General Grant from a Congregational pulpit, and members of his old fold recall the doctor's compliment to Conkling some time ago as "a man who preferred to go down and out of sight than sacrifice a principle." This is evidently not true of the reverend doctor. He, seemingly, would rather "sacrifice a principle" than go down and out of sight. It is something, however, to appreciate virtue in others.

The tax on whisky and other spirits in Great Britain is equivalent to $1 78 per gallon, American measure. Our tax is 90 cents per gallon. The English derive a revenue of $72,000,000 annually from the tax, and we derive $60,000,000. There seems to be no good reason why we should not be able to collect 90 cents per gallon as honestly and as easily as the English collect $1 78. Neither can our tax, as compared with the English, be considered a hardship to the distillers.

Mr. Hewitt, so the telegraph reports, is preparing a bill for revision of the tariff, which will be followed by an elaborate speech defining the future policy of the democratic party. If Mr. Hewitt will evolve a plan which will reconcile the views of Bayard, Randall, Voorhees and others, he will give himself a great honor.

The Bourbons of Kentucky have created a sensation by reapportioning the state solely on the basis of the white vote, again utterly ignoring the constitutional amendment which vests the right of franchise in the colored race.

Those people who fancy that Conkling is shelved, will find themselves mistaken. Practically he is president of the United States. The mills of the gods grind slowly.

All Christendom will rejoice that the shot fired at Queen Victoria yesterday missed its aim.

CITY.

A MOCK MARRIAGE.—Sam. Price, a wood-sawyer whom almost everybody knows, was last night the victim of a most ridiculous practical joke. It seems that the festive Samuel, who is only about 45 years old, became enamored of a pretty young girl who occupies the position of chambermaid at the Richmond house, which fact was well known among the boarders of the caravansary. The girl on account of the difference in their ages and social position did not reciprocate his manly affection, but allowed him to continue his devotions. Last night an effeminate looking waiter named Jasper, who works in the house was dressed in a neat-fitting lady's costume, and when Price made his usual evening call presented himself in the place of the chambermaid. Price did not notice the deception in the partially darkened room, and was overjoyed when on pressing his suit as usual, the supposed chambermaid consented to their marriage. Price being a man of business, wanted the nuptials consummated immediately, to which "she" also consented. James Woods, a driver in the O. T. Co.'s employ, who had previously dressed in female attire, acted as bridesmaid; James Hall, an old Californian, was palmed off as a justice of the peace, while James Johnston, the originator of the sell was best man and master of ceremonies. The rite was performed in room 21 with due solemnity, every one engaged in it playing his part so well as to completely dupe the overjoyed Samuel. After the sealing kiss and subsequent congratulations, the bride and groom retired, which was no sooner done than "she" ran into the hall screaming, and as had been planned, brought a crowd of probably forty people to the room, who set Samuel completely wild with their jeers and yells. Price did not say much, but was seen a short time after with four revolvers, two breech-loading double-acting rifles and a cannon in his vest pocket. He was inquiring of a stranger whether he had seen a party by the name of Johnston.

ALLEGED SAFE BURGLARY.—J. P. Kennard was yesterday arraigned in Justice Bushwiler's court on a charge of burglary, preferred by George Reid, proprietor of the Caledonia saloon on the corner of Front and N streets, and placed under $100 bonds, which were furnished late in the evening. The circumstances of the supposed burglary are as follows: For some time past Reid had missed small sums from his safe, but not until the man Kennard had made a loafing place of the saloon. He first attributed it to his own carelessness, as he always kept the safe locked, and could not see how this systematic robbery could be accomplished. However he finally suspected Kennard, and "set up a job" to catch him in the act. He had a small hole bored in the partition next to the saloon, and stationed two friends in the back room; then told Kennard, who was in the saloon, that he was going up stairs to dinner. He had no sooner gone than Kennard opened the safe and began to take some silver from one of the drawers. The two men who were in the back room rushed in and secured him, after which he confessed he was the party that had before stolen the money, and that he had by certain means learned the combination to the safe. After this he was released, and after the complaint was made, was arrested by Constable Grant. He will be examined to-day.

AN EXPLANATION.—Some two weeks ago a number of young men conceived the idea of forming a social club and those interested held a preliminary meeting at a private residence on Salmon street. Mr. Arthur E. Sloan, who took an active interest in the organization, called at THE OREGONIAN office and asked that a reporter be sent to the meeting to take notes. In accordance with the request, a representative went to the house designated and was informed his presence was not necessary or desirable. Since then several of the members who imagine themselves gentlemen have taken pains to say on various occasions that THE OREGONIAN had made an effort to pry into their private affairs. Mr. Sloan forgot to say when the reporter made his appearance that the latter was present only by special request, and when the news gatherer left Sloan did not have the manliness to state that he had asked that favor of this journal.

THE RECENT RISE.—Yesterday the Willamette rose only eight inches, and was at a stand from 6 o'clock until midnight. The water lacked sixteen inches of touching steamship dock, and the agents were undecided whether to discharge the Columbia's heavy cargo below or above. Tuesday morning the covered wagon bridge over Silver creek, at Silverton, was carried away; loss, $5000. Fortunately the railroad bridge, a short distance below, was not damaged. Traffic on the east side division of the narrow gauge road will probably not be resumed until Monday. On the west side, trains are running from White's to Monmouth, and will likely get through to Airlie to-day.

NEW FIRE COMPANY.—Wednesday evening a number of citizens of Stephens' addition, East Portland, met at the residence of E. J. Sprague, and organized the "Third Ward Hook and Ladder Company." Following are the officers elected: President, J. R. M. Sellwood; secretary, E. J. Sprague; treasurer, T. A. Davis; foreman, Colin Thompson; first assistant, T. M. Brickle; second assistant, James Sprague. Trustees: Messrs. Harkins, McGrew and Halfpenny. The new company starts out with a list of twenty members. The regular meetings will be held on the second Monday of each month, at the residence of Mr. Sellwood.

THE BRADLEY CASE.—The alleged murderers of John N. Brown will be arraigned in the state circuit court this morning to enter their pleas. As only one week of the term remains, an effort will be made to have the cases go over to the next term, which commences Monday, May 1. District Attorney Caples is ready and anxious to have the trial proceed without delay, the testimony is ready, the witnesses are at hand, and if the prisoners are innocent they should not be kept in confinement for an indefinite period.

THE PURIM ENTERTAINMENT.—Reserved seats for the Purim entertainment can be secured this morning at 10 o'clock at Prentice's. The board will be perfectly clear, and the golden rule of "first come first served," will be strictly observed. Not more than ten seats can be reserved by any one person. The parquet having been floored over, the committee have decided to sell reserves for every seat in the house, including the gallery.

LIQUOR DEALERS' UNION.—Articles were yesterday filed in the county clerk's office incorporating the Liquor Dealers' Protective Union of Oregon. The association is composed of most of the wholesale and retail liquor dealers of Portland, and has property to the amount of $100. The incorporators are Al. Zieber, B. L. Norden, Dan. Holton, Thos. Martin, T. S. Harrington, Henry Fleckenstein and George Herrall.

GOON GUILTY.—The Chinaman, Oh Goon, who stole a gold ring from Mrs. Low, proprietress of a restaurant on Oak street, between First and Second, Wednesday evening, was yesterday tried in Justice Prindle's court, found guilty and fined $25. Not furnishing the "wherewith," he will eat and sleep at the expense of the county for 12 days.

THE CITY HALL SITE.—Plaza block No. 54, on which it is proposed at some not far distant day to erect a city hall to cost $75,000, is the ground bounded by Third, Fourth, Main and Madison streets. It was selected in preference to the block immediately north because it is higher and has much better natural drainage.

BEING RAZED.—The one story frame range on the southeast corner of First and Washington, running back on Washington to J. L. Parrish's building, is being torn down to make room for the handsome new brick block to be erected by Henry Failing, the lower story of which will be occupied by the First National Bank.

VIOLATION OF REVENUE LAW.—Joseph Webber was yesterday arraigned in the U. S. district court on a charge of selling beer in kegs without a revenue stamp on them, to which he entered a plea of not guilty. Bonds were furnished for his appearance on day of trial, which was set for Friday, the 10th inst.

INDICTED FOR MURDER.—J. W. Wilson, who some time since kicked Wm. Harrigan in a fight, from the effects of which the latter died, was yesterday indicted by the grand jury. They brought in a bill charging him with murder. Wilson is still at large, but it is thought he will soon be captured.

THE STEAMERS.—The Columbia arrived in at 10:45 yesterday morning, left at noon and reached her dock here at 8:30. The State arrived down at noon, but did not cross out. The Eureka left for sea at 9 A. M., but returned to Astoria shortly afterward, the bar, presumably, being too rough.

LODGE ANNIVERSARIES.—Next Thursday, the 9th inst., Unity lodge No. 26, A. O. U. W., will celebrate the third anniversary of its organization by a ball at Turn Halle. On Monday, the 13th inst., Multnomah lodge No. 48 will celebrate its first anniversary by a ball at the same place.

SELLING TOBACCO WITHOUT LICENSE.—A. Tyler yesterday plead guilty to a charge of carrying on tobacco business without a special license, in the U. S. district court, and was sentenced to pay a fine of $10 or serve 30 days in the county jail. The fine was paid.

NO TRUE BILLS.—"Not true bills" was yesterday reported by the grand jury in the cases of Wm. Palmer, charged with assault with a dangerous weapon; Mary Gleim, with assault with a dangerous weapon, and Mee Tung, with burglary.

ASTORIA.—Bishop Morris will officiate in Grace church Astoria, on Sunday the 5th of March, morning and evening, administering the holy communion at the morning service.

REMARKABLE FATAL ACCIDENT.—Yesterday afternoon while a young man named Henry Bowser, aged 15 years, was driving a horse with a drag of an apple tree, he was caught by the neck in a projecting limb of a standing tree, which acted by the limb being dragged, held the young man's neck as if in a vise, causing dislocation and resulting in instant death. The body was found some twenty minutes after the accident in a standing position—the limb holding it upright. The team stopped on the spot, young Bowser having dropped the lines the moment he was caught. The affair occurred on Sauvie's island, where the deceased resided.

MEASLES PREVALENT.—The East Portland correspondent of the Telegram says that measles are becoming epidemic in that city, among both children and adults. Miss Etta Otis is lying very ill at the residence of the Rev. T. F. Sails, with the disease, and through its action has lost her voice. The physicians speak hopefully of the case, however. Several other cases are also reported.

HENRY DALEY DISCHARGED.—Henry Daley, who was bound over to await the action of the grand jury from a justice court on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon, and who has been confined in the county jail since his examination, was yesterday released, the grand jury having found no true bill against him.

ASSAULT AND BATTERY.—John Graham, a runner for the Nicolai house, was yesterday tried in a justice court on a charge of assault and battery committed on the bookkeeper at the Barton house. He plead guilty and was fined five dollars, which was paid.

NOT INDICTED.—The grand jury yesterday returned "not a true bill" in the case of Hubert and Willis Duniway, who were bound over on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon, made upon William Simpson some time since.

SENTENCED FOR LARCENY.—Morris Nelson, who was found guilty of larceny from person in the state circuit court, was yesterday sentenced to two years in the state prison by Judge Stott. He will be taken to Salem this afternoon.

A stated meeting of Portland Lodge No. 55 A. F. & A. M., will be held at their lodge room, Masonic Temple, this (Friday) evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Owing to circumstances rendering it unsuitable to have the dedication of the Mount Tabor church as advertised, it was indefinitely postponed. Due notice of it will be hereafter given.

WHERE IS THE PRODUCE EXCHANGE?

THE OREGONIAN last night received the following dispatch:

SAN FRANCISCO, March 2.—W. H. Walker, secretary of the produce exchange, has received a letter from the Portland produce exchange expressing lively interest in the new "call" movement and a desire to learn details of it. The Portland exchange also wants samples of California wheat (produce exchange standards), and will hereafter base its market on San Francisco quotations.

Portland produce exchange? Isn't somebody mistaken in the name? Will any one who knows about this institution place himself in communication with THE OREGONIAN?

MILITARY AND PERSONAL.

(Vancouver Independent.)

Private John M. Jefferson, K Co., 2d infantry, has been granted a furlough of two months.

Lieut. Thos. W. Symons, engineer corps, arrived at Washington on the 5th and reported at headquarters.

Lieut. John M. Ross, Q. M. 21st infantry, has gone to San Francisco, having in charge a party of military convicts.

A general court martial is in session at San Francisco for the trial of Lieut. John O'Connell of the 8th infantry.

Lieut. Fred Schwatka, aide-de-camp, has been granted a month's leave of absence, and has gone eastward from San Francisco.

The department commander, accompanied by Lieut. Long, A. D. C., left here on Monday on a visit to Forts Townsend, Canby and Stevens. They will probably be absent a week or ten days.

Dr. Wm. O. Spencer has been relieved from duty at Fort Coeur d'Alene and ordered to New York city. He is expected down in a few days to report at headquarters en route.

Gen. Rufus Ingalls, formerly quartermaster at Fort Vancouver, many years ago, has been appointed quartermaster-general of the army. None of his old Vancouver comrades are in the least displeased thereat.

The Boise City Statesman says: Strong opposition to the restoration of Capt. T. Riley is being developed among the officers now serving in this military department, and very strong documentary evidence is being prepared to forward to Washington to defeat the bill for Riley's restoration.

Some trouble having arisen among the Coeur d'Alene Indian missions in resisting the effort to collect taxes levied on their mission church property, by the authorities of Kootenai county, Idaho, Gen. Wheaton, at Fort Coeur d'Alene, was applied to for settlement of the difficulties. He sent Lieut. J. K. Waring, 2d infantry, to investigate the subject.

G. O. Haller, colonel 23d infantry, was retired last month and ordered to his home on Puget Sound. The following is his military history: Col. Granville O. Haller, 23d infantry, who is now retired, is a native of Pennsylvania, and was appointed lieutenant in the 4th infantry Nov. 17, 1839. He was regimental adjutant in 1843-45, 1st lieutenant July, 1846, breveted captain Sept. 8, 1847, at the battle of Molino del Rey, Mexico, and major Sept. 13, 1847, for gallantry at Chapultepec. He was promoted to captain Jan. 1, 1848, and major, 7th infantry, Sept. 25, 1861. He was dismissed the service July 25, 1863, for alleged disloyal utterances, but justice was done him July 1, 1879, by his restoration to service as colonel, to date from Feb. 9, 1873, the date he would have been promoted if continuously in service. He remained at his present home, on Puget Sound, W. T., until December, 1779, when the sudden death of Gen. Jeff. C. Davis created a vacancy, and he was assigned to the 23d infantry.

THE DISAPPEARANCE OF WILLIAMSON.

The Walla Walla Union of Feb. 28th has the following: Mr. R. G. Williamson, father of the young man who so mysteriously disappeared from Spokane Falls, arrived in the city Friday for the purpose of examining the property found by Mr. Pelkey some time last fall. Upon his return to this city after viewing the effects, Mr. Williamson pronounced them as unquestionably those of his son. From him we learn that his son, C. M. Williamson, more generally known as "Trent," was last seen on Moran prairie on the 20th of last July. At that time he expressed his intention of coming to Walla Walla during the harvest. Nearly two weeks after the father visited the son's ranch to see how the crop was getting along, and found a small patch of grain had been cut and carried off, evidently for a journey. Mr. Williamson is satisfied that his son has been foully dealt with, as he had no reason whatever for leaving his home, and inclines to the belief that the murder was committed somewhere in the upper country and the team left at Mr. Pelkey's merely as a blind. The missing man was probably dressed in a black coat and vest, with overalls, wore a No. 7¼ hat and No. 8 boot, and a well worn overcoat with one new sleeve. He had in his possession about $100 when he left home. His horses were well matched grays. No trace of them has so far been found. Mr. Williamson intends as soon as the snow disappears making a thorough search for the body.

THE CORSICA DISASTER.

Findings of a Court of Inquiry—The Pilot, Master and Crew Exonerated.

A naval court consisting of Mr. James Laidlaw, British vice-consul, Capt. Edward Halley, master of the British ship City of Lucknow and Capt. Alexander Mills, master of the British bark Valparaiso, after taking testimony regarding the loss of the British bark Corsica, wrecked on the 21st ult., rendered the following findings:

1st. That the bark Corsica foundered outside of the Columbia river from the effects of a leak caused by her striking heavily on the bar while crossing out under charge of a properly licensed and experienced pilot.

2d. That the pilot seems to have exercised all due precaution in approaching the bar in order to ascertain if it was in a fit condition for a vessel of the Corsica's draft to cross out, and that he could not have foreseen the sudden swell which arose and caught the ship in the act of crossing; other vessels of even deeper draft having crossed out the day before and later on the same day, without accident.

3. That the loss of the vessel has not been occasioned by negligence or default of either pilot, master, mates or crew.

4. That it would have been impossible to have turned the vessel round after she first struck on account of the narrowness of the channel and there was no place on the outside where she could have been beached. Neither could she with any chance of success have been brought in again over the bar on account of falling tide, the increasing swell and the ship settling deeper in the water.

5. That recent surveys seem to prove that the north and the south channels of the Columbia river are changing and filling up and that a new channel is forming across the middle sands between the two, which would render the entrance of the Columbia river easier and safer.

POISONED WITH STRYCHNINE.

The Salem Statesman of yesterday contains the following particulars of the accidental poisoning of Nora McCrary, aged twelve years.

The little girl, who lived with her uncle, Mr. A. F McCrary, just across the road from Rev. J. L. Parrish's residence, had been over to Mr. Parrish's playing, and had accidentally picked up a bottle of strychnine, and poured therefrom, into her hand, about fifteen grains of the poison. Which she put into her mouth. She started for home, and soon went into spasms. Her aunt, who was at the house, did not know what she had taken, and it was fully an hour and a half before medical aid arrived. Every possible antidote was administered, and the little girl, after she knew what she had taken, took everything the physician administered without a murmur; but it was of no avail, and at seven o'clock in the evening the spirit of the poor little victim passed into the great unknown. The family have just lately moved here from California, where the mother of the unfortunate girl was drowned about six months ago, and since that time she has resided with her uncle. Mrs. McCrary, her aunt, who was much attached to the child, is almost insane over her tragic death.

A VALENTINE.

Go, lovely rose!
  Tell her that wastes her time and me,
That now she knows
  When I resemble her to thee
  How sweet and fair she seems to be.

Tell her that's young
  And shuns to have her graces spied,
That hadst thou sprung
  In deserts, where no men abide,
  Thou must have uncommended died.

Small is the worth
  Of beauty from the light retired;
Bid her come forth,
  Suffer herself to be desired,
And not blush so to be admired.

Then die! that she
  The common fate of all things rare
May read in thee
  How small a part of time they share
  That are so wondrous sweet and fair.

THE PROHIBITION QUESTION.

Rev. Mr. Thompson, of Olympia, Quotes Gov. St. John's Testimony and Presents his own Views.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

In a paragraph published in last Friday's issue of your paper, speaking of the letter of Rev. Dr. H. A. Tucker, regarding the working of the prohibition law in Kansas, you say that being a clergyman he would see but the best side of life and society in Kansas, and who could not have that wide, practical knowledge of affairs possessed by others who have written on the same subject. His testimony is at best that of an enthusiastic partisan in the interest of his cause. The weight of evidence is overwhelmingly opposed to Mr. Tucker's view, which we print that the public may have both sides of this very interesting question.

I scarcely know whether to thank you or not, for the double compliment, "which is not all a compliment" to the cloth, contained in this paragraph. It is, to say the least, rather a strange assertion that an educated gentleman is unable to give truthful testimony upon the most momentous question of this age, simply because his sympathies are supposed to be all on the side of good morals and the orderly enforcement of law. I know that editors of such influential and widely circulated papers as THE OREGONIAN, whose columns I read with great interest and nearly always with pleasure, enjoy special privileges, among others that of speaking with authority, and not as do the common scribes; but how you could publish such statistics and facts as appear in one column of your paper and then sit calmly down upon your editorial tripod and pen the paragraph from which I quote above, passes my ability to understand, and I have no doubt but it has proved quite a perplexing conundrum to others of your readers, who are not usually regarded as stupid men.

But if the testimony of an honored clergyman of the powerful Methodist church, with its six or eight millions of members and adherents in these United States, is of no value in your estimation, perhaps you will accord more respect to that of Gov. St. John, one of the most successful politicians of Kansas; a man whose name commands respect wherever known; and who, from his official position, has a first-class chance to know how the prohibitory law works, in the state over which he presides as chief executive. In a recent speech delivered before a mass meeting of several thousand, held under the auspices of the national temperance society, in Brooklyn, Governor St. John spoke these words:

I desire to say to you that in the state of Kansas, in at least three-fourths of the state, prohibition is as absolute and as honestly obeyed and enforced, as any other law on the statute book prohibiting crime. In the large cities, such as Atchison and Topeka, it is difficult, on account of the fact that the city governments, whose duty it is to see that the laws are enforced, are in league with the law-breaker, and the officer of the same character, and in league together, it is difficult to enforce any law. But remember it is not the fault of the people. The time will come at the next election, when that class of officers will be swept out of power, and when the next legislature convenes, in these cities special provisions will be made for these city governments, for I desire to assure you that there is no spot in Kansas where there can be successfully inaugurated and maintained, rebellion against the constitution and laws of the people. We are having no trouble in convicting men. In the city of Salina there have been some twenty convicted in the last thirty days; one man fined $3300 and costs, and treated to the luxury of thirty days in the county jail. You cannot convince that man now, it matters not how eloquent or logical you may be, that prohibition does not prohibit in Kansas."

My reading upon this subject, and I have not "read up" only on one side of it, has convinced me that the people of Kansas are determined to stand by the prohibition law. This same Gov. St. John was nominated in a republican convention with the distinct understanding that they would have to take him as their candidate "temperance and all;" and the people elected him by a majority of 52,000 over his opponent—being a larger majority by 21,000 than had ever been cast in Kansas for any governor. Moreover, one effect of prohibition has been to attract a better class of people to the state, than otherwise would have sought it; people who build up homes and schools and churches, and lay the foundation of the state strongly upon the principles of that righteousness which makes a nation great. One hundred thousand persons, largely composed of this class, have sought homes in Kansas within the last eighteen months. The state records show that the valuation of personal property alone for the year 1881 under prohibition, was $10,249,000 greater than it was in 1880, under the liquor rule, and a little over $4,000,000 greater increase than in any previous year in the history of Kansas. The earnings of the A. T. & S. F. R. R. Co were 50 per cent more in '81 than in '80. I make the above statements on the authority of the governor of the state, and he ought to know whereof he speaks even if Dr. Tupper and other "partisans" do not. I give them here to show that the prohibitory law is not only as well enforced in Kansas "as any other law against crime," but to prove that it is contributing to the material and moral welfare of the state to a degree altogether unexpected by its most "enthusiastic partisans." There are, as you intimate, two sides to this "very interesting question," and I know that in your love of free discussion you will pardon me for saying that I fear the wrong side of it has been too freely advocated in the columns of THE OREGONIAN. I confess that I feel strongly upon this question, my observation extending over a number of years, of the awful consequences,—the poverty, misery and crime,—which flow directly from the liquor traffic has converted me from an anti-prohibitionist into a "partisan." I don't know how it is in Oregon, but I am glad to know that the army of "partisans" is recruiting its ranks very rapidly over in this territory, and there is not a man in these ranks willing to join you in the confession that a business which you admit is an evil, and which we believe is one of the most gigantic curses of our age and country, cannot be put down, trampled under foot and buried forever in an ignominious grave by the moral manhood and patriotism of the American people. I don't shut my eyes to the fact there are many obstacles in the way of the temperance reform. But this was the case in regard to the religious reform inaugurated by the founder of Christianity, and you know whereunto this thing has grown. It is said that "reforms never go backward." Certain it is that the right has power in it always to triumph ultimately in every struggle with evil. Admit that there have been wild and foolish words by the "partisans;" that they have not always felt towards their opponents as perfect Christians should; still, our side is the right side, and the best people of our nation are swelling the ranks of the grand army of prohibition.

There is no question aside from religion, which has such an interest to the American people as this. The people are aroused about it. The legislatures of thirty states have heard them knocking at the doors of as many capitols, and the time is not far hence when every man who does not want to dig his own political grave will vote right when the ayes and noes are called. I give notice that we are working for prohibition along the whole front, whatever the rear ranks may be doing; aye, and this thing for which we are contending is bound to come. This nation can't exist very long "half drunk and half sober."

As I do not wish to give you a whole temperance lecture at one sitting, I will close by asking two questions: 1st—If the liquor traffic is an evil, ought we not oppose it? 2d—If prohibition is right, ought we not advocate it?

Thanking you for so much of your valuable space,
I am, etc., JOHN R. THOMPSON.
Presbyterian Parsonage, Olympia, Feb. 27.

A MISERABLE FAILURE.

A Kansas Man Tells what he Knows of the Operation of the Prohibition Law.

PORTLAND, March 2.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

I observe that your correspondents are conducting a discussion upon prohibition. The undersigned, together with a number of other residents of Kansas, has been engaged in an impotent endeavor to enforce the prohibitory amendment lately adopted in that state, and I desire to say right here that the law is an abject and miserable failure. I plainly and flatly assert that the law is neither enforced, nor will it be, unless by some more than human means. The sentiment of the people is changed from that of active opposition or passive indifference to that state of feeling which seems to animate the being of the average temperance radical. Without entering into an argument upon the abstract questions involved in the discussion, I should like to give you a brief statement of affairs in Kansas before and after the adoption of the amendment. Prior to that Kansas had what is virtually the "local option law." Each township had exclusive control of the issuance of license to saloons within its bounds. Comparatively speaking, saloons were then "respectable." Men openly and freely patronized the bars, everything was open to public view and examination; certain restrictions were thrown about the traffic, which rendered it as free from objection as possible; and there was a measurable degree of decency, cleanliness and legitimacy about the saloons which has now departed.

Prohibition went into effect on May 1, 1881. On May 2, 1881, hundreds of little sink holes sprung into existence. Instead of the one or two licensed saloons in each town, a dozen low dives, reeking with filth, and hidden within the unsavory recesses of the meanest and lowest and dirtiest building, opened its barrel of a cross between a buzz saw and coal oil, and the traffic went on. Before the adoption of the law 1028 U. S. liquor licenses were in effect in Kansas. In September of 1881 the U. S. revenue collector officially stated that Kansas had 2164 licenses. The reason for this grew out of the very fact that every man who could get credit for a barrel of whisky was a thoroughly equipped saloon, without the former outlay in the way of furnishing a public house. One claim by the temperance orators was that [illegible] this state [illegible] affairs exist, the temptation to drink would be removed as [illegible] not so sacrifice their self respect as to sneak into a back door, dark alley place to get a drink. It is a misconception. Human beings as a rule go farther and work harder for forbidden things than for the fruits of [illegible]. I have been in many of these places. I speak from the [illegible] of experience. I have seen the flower of youth in many towns sitting around the table of a [illegible], playing the [illegible] game, or "freeze-out," and drinking stuff which was [illegible]. This was the condition of affairs a short time after the law came into effect. As to stage a portion of the good people [illegible] the public places and "resolved" against the [illegible] traffic, while another portion set about enforcing the law through the interposition of courts. Prosecution after prosecution was instituted and forced through the courts until many counties were burdened with costs, and commissioners instructed their attorney and sheriff to stop bringing cases. Some few counties have succeeded in convicting saloon-keepers, but the records show that less than 40 have been convicted while 2164 are unlawfully in the business. After long and fruitless endeavor to enforce the law, the cities of Leavenworth, Lawrence, Topeka, Atchison and other towns have adopted ordinances which license men to sell "soda water and other drinks." "Other drinks" is intended to cover alcoholic drinks, and though it is a palpable evasion of the prohibition law, it still brings in the old license money, and is a confession to the world that prohibition cannot prohibit. There are not twenty towns in Kansas where liquor is not notoriously sold, and yet every town has made repeated endeavors to enforce the law. The reason for all this failure lies in the fact that public sentiment is strong against the law, and the men who oppose it are those fellows who believe that one of their constitutional rights has been infringed upon by the passage of this sumptuary act. They fight its enforcement. The law was adopted by only 8000 majority. The law against horse stealing would be but seldom enforced if it had no larger majority than this at its back.

I left Kansas only the 20th of last month, and so know whereof I speak. KANSAN.

An Iowa farmer, who has both coal and wood on his farm, warms his house with cornstalks, and claims that they make the best and cheapest fuel he can get. He uses a large stove, and burns the stalks in tightly bound bundles, weighing about forty pounds each. A bundle burns three hours (without flame) in an air-tight stove. The large stove offers so much radiating surface that it does not need to be very hot. Five bundles a day, or 600 for the winter, suffice to keep the stove going and the room warm. The farmer, Mr. Ruggles, says: "I can bind up 600 bundles of cornstalks in two days alone. I couldn't chop the wood to warm this room in a week. Then in the spring I have a load of strong ashes for my wheat field, while my neighbors have to cut up the same cornstalks in the spring to get them away from the harrow. It makes me smile when I hear of idiots in Minnesota who have fifty-acre corn fields, and still go cold or buy coal. Why, I'd rather burn cornstalks than cut maple wood within sight of the house.

In a communication to the San Francisco Post, Phil. Neiss says: "We have yet a surplus of from 700 to 800 bales of hops for export, without running short for home consumption." Mr. Neiss, as buyer, should be better informed, and if informed, should not give to the Post such a statement without giving the amount held on this coast by each firm or person having holdings; he also should have informed us how much each brewer holds and their estimated requirements until some of the incoming crop arrives and is put on the market. The amount of both old and new held by dealers and growers in this state is not over 1200 bales, and in Washington Territory and Oregon (some of these are accounted for in the holdings in this state), not to exceed 300 bales. Say a total of 1500 bales, outside of that held by brewers. There is only one brewery in this city and Oakland that is stocked for the entire season; one for four months to come, and three from two to three months; the other brewers are buying as their wants require.

The common white lily (Lilium Candidum) that grand old flower, is a very attractive object. The large clusters of pure white flowers are deliciously fragrant. It is perfectly hardy and thrives in almost any garden soil. It requires deep planting, and should not be disturbed for several years after being planted.

An article so favorably known as Hall's Hair Renewer needs no words of praise from us. It has won its way to the highest favor in the public mind, and multitudes who have vainly used other preparations have, on trying this, been made glad by the speedy restoration of abundant locks as in the days of youth.

THURSDAY, EVENING, March 2.

During the week under review we could not hear of a transaction in wheat worth noting. $1 60 per cental is a nominal quotation.

No charter has been negotiated since the Levi P. Burgess was taken two weeks ago. The disengaged vessels in port are the American ships Western Belle and Reporter and the British bark Sam Mendel. The two former are held at 60 shillings, but have been offered no higher than 55 shillings for U. K. The Mendel will probably load on owners' account.

In general merchandise preparations have been made by wholesale dealers in all lines for an unusually large spring trade. A representative of THE OREGONIAN to-day visited the leading grocery, dry goods, hardware, boot and shoe and drug houses and every merchant interviewed reported trade during January and February very much heavier than in the corresponding months last year—in some lines more than double. The increase comes principally from Eastern Oregon and Washington, where railroad construction has been pushed all winter. Spring stocks are not quite complete, but every steamer brings all the freight she can carry, mostly merchandise from eastern importers and manufacturers. A number of early buyers from the more distant points are in the city, and spring trade may be said to already have a good start.

THE ENGLISH MARKET.

The Mark Lane Express gives the following gloomy review of the English grain trade for the week: Growing crops continue to improve. Spring sowing is progressing rapidly and satisfactory. The condition of the grain trade is unsatisfactory. The best samples of native wheat are weaker and inferior practically unsalable. Flour is irregularly cheaper. All breadstuffs closed depressed, foreign extremely so. Foreign flour arrives freely. Trade was dull throughout the week and prices irregular and cheaper. Maize declined. Mixed American in London Friday was quoted at 27s 6d. It is stated that a still lower rate has been accepted. Cargoes and wheat off coast difficult to sell. Red winter on Saturday realized 50s 6d, declined 1s from Wednesday. Sales of new California, 48s, being 1s lower on week. There were 15 more arrivals. Nine cargoes were sold, eight withdrawn and ten remain on market, of which five are California. Sales of English wheat during the week were 37,085 quarters at 45s 7d per quarter, against 28,068 quarters at 40s 9d for the corresponding week last year.

NEW YORK FREIGHTS AND MARKETS.

NEW YORK, March 1.—Stormy weather is working against improvement in the clipper freight market and there is not much doing at the wharves of California vessels beyond receipts of such freight as coal, iron, etc. Otherwise the market is very quiet. Rates, however, remain firm owing in part to the high figures asked for vessels and part to the fact that shipments are mainly of dead weight, and ships are not sailing with full cargoes. Tonnage is very scarce, and although both lines have all they require for at least thirty days, the outlook for ships to follow is not very promising. Tonnage movement for the past month amounts to four vessels, registering 5075 tons, against the same number of vessels registering 5200 tons in the corresponding month of last year. The total movement for the past two months amounts to eight vessels, registering 13,891 tons, against ten vessels of 14,313 tons in the corresponding two months of last year, a decrease of two vessels.

Tonnage on berth and engaged from this port, Boston, Philadelphia and Baltimore comprises sixteen ships, registering in the aggregate 21,700 tons. Of these probably four and perhaps five will get away during the current month. Anxiety is felt for the Sea King, chartered to load at Philadelphia. She is now out [illegible] days from Antwerp.

Markets are generally dull.

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.
DISPENSARY,
623 KEARNY ST. corner of Commercial street, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of sexual and Seminal diseases, such as Gonorrhea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, and Lost Manhood, can positively be cured. The sick and afflicted should not fail to call upon him. The Doctor has traveled extensively in Europe, and inspected thoroughly the various hospitals there, obtaining a great deal of valuable information, which he is competent to impart those in need of his services. DR. GIBBON will make no charge unless he effects a cure. Persons at a distance may be cured at home. All communications strictly confidential. Send $10 for a package of medicine. You see no one but the Doctor. Persons writing to the Doctor will please state the name of the paper they seen this advertisement in. Charges reasonable. Call or write. Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, Box 1957, San Francisco. jy6dly
